VOLUNTEERING AND OTHER INTERESTS

I am passionate about cruelty-free, sustainable beauty and aim to make ethical choices at every stage of my creative process, from the products I use to the way I prepare clients and models. I believe that beauty should be inclusive, accessible, and reflective of real people, and I continue to educate myself on how to cater to all skin tones, hair types, and individual needs with care and respect. Beyond freelance and editorial work, I regularly support local school productions by providing hair and makeup for children's plays, which has strengthened my adaptability and my ability to work calmly and creatively with young performers. I also enjoy taking part in community-led events like the Oska Bright Film Festival, where I've gained insight into the importance of representation, accessibility, and collaboration. Whether I'm designing a bold editorial look or helping someone feel confident in their own skin, my goal is always to combine technical skill with empathy, creativity, and professionalism.
